Die Martis, 5 Martii, 1688.

E Your Majesty's most Faithful and Dutiful Subjects, the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons Assembled in Parliament, being highly sensible of our late great and signal Deliverance from Popery and Arbitrary Power, whereof it hath pleased Almighty God to make Your Majesty the Glorious Instrument: and desiring, to the utmost of our Abilities, to express our Gratitude to Your Majesty for so great and generous

And being likewise fully convinced of the restless Spirits, and the continued Endeavours of Your Majesty's and the Nations Enemies, for the Extirpation of the Protestant Religion, and the Subversion of our Laws and Liberties : Do unanimously declare, That we will stand by and assist Your Majesty with our Lives and Fortunes, in Supporting Your Alliances abroad, in Reducing of Ireland, and in Defence of the Protestant Religion and Laws of the Kingdom.*

MAJESTY'S
 MOST GRACIOUS
ANSVVER
 TO THE
ADDRESS
 Of Both HOUSES of PARLIAMENT.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

IF any thing could add to the Esteem and Affection I have for Parliaments, and particularly for this ; they would be much encreased by the Kindness You shew to me, and the Zeal You express for the Publick Good, in the Address You have made ; which in the Manner, as well as the Matter, hath hath every thing in it, that ought to recommend it to Me.

I will assure you, That I will never abuse the Confidence you shall put in me, being fully perswaded, That there is no sure Foundation of a Good Agreement between a King and His People, but a mutual Trust: When that is once broken, a Government is half dissolved: It shall therefore be my chief Care, never to give any Parliament cause to distrust Me; And the best Method I can use for that purpose, is, never to expect any thing from them, but that which shall be their own Interest to grant.

I came hither for the Good of the Kingdom: And since it is at your Desire, that I am in this Station, I shall still pursue the same Ends that brought Me.

God hath been pleased to make Me instrumental to redeem you from the Ills you feared; And it is still my Desire, as well as my Duty, to endeavour to preserve your Religion, Laws and Liberties, which were the only Inducements that brought Me into England: And to those I ascribe the Blessings that have attended this Undertaking

When I spoke last to you, I told you of the Necessity of Assisting Our Allies, and more especially the States of Holland, whose readiness to relieve you, at their so great Hazard and Expence, from the Extremities you lay under, needs no

no other Arguments to move you to the Consideration of it.

As I was then a Witness of their Zeal and Affection, to promote the Expedition, and to Second my Endeavours even with a Neglect of their own Safety; so I am now sensible of the inevitable Ruine they have drawn upon Themselves, by giving you this Assistance, if you should not return it to them.

They have really exhausted themselves to such a Degree, both as to Men and Money, that it is not easily to be imagined; and I am confident your Generosity will have as little bounds towards them, as theirs had towards you, and that you will not only enable Me to make good the Treaty with them, and repay what they have actually laid out upon this Occasion, of which an Account shall be given to you, but that you will further support them, to the utmost of your Ability, against the Power of their Enemies, who must be yours too, by their Interest and by their Religion, and do certainly design the Ruin of Holland to be a step to your Destruction.

I need not take Pains to tell you the deplorable Condition of Ireland, which by the Zeal and Violence of the Popish Party there, and by the Assistance and Encouragements they have from France, is brought to that pass, that it is not ad-viseable to Attempt the Reducing it, otherwise than by a very considerable Force, which I think ought not to be less than Twenty thousand Horse and Foot, which, by the blessing of God, will make the work shorter, and in Consequence, the Charge easier, though the first Expence must of Necessity be very great.

You are to Consider, that towards the more Speedy and Effectual Success in relation to Ireland, as well as with a regard to France, there must be such a Fleet as may in conjunction with the States, make Us so intirely Masters of the Sea, that nothing can be sent from France, either to Ireland, or any where else, that may give disturbance to Us or our Allies.

I must also recommend the Consideration of the Revenue to you, that it may be so settled, as that it may be Collected without dispute.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

These things will amount to a great Sum, and must of Consequence be a Present Weight upon the People; but considering, That neither your Religion, nor your safety, can probably be secured, without these Means, I conclude, you will think nothing can be too great a Price for their Preservation. And I will engage my

my Solemn Word to you, That whatever you shall give in order to these Publick Ends, shall be strictly applied to them: And that as you so freely offer, to hazard all that is dear to you, so I shall as freely expose my Life, for the support of the Protestant Religion, and the Safety and Honour of the Nation.
